Our Conferences A Writer Speaks Regarding The Series

D. L. Moody died in 1899. The persistence of his influence is striking. A recent attendant at a Northfield conference wrote his son W. R. Moody:

"After 30 years' absence from Northfield, upon my return your dear father's voice rang the loudest and clearest in my ears."

The General Conference of Christian Workers, which opened on July 29, runs until next Monday August 14. This is the first of the Bible conferences organized by D. L. Moody back in 1881. It has continued all these years largely on the original lines. There is no hard and fast organization, no enlisting of delegates, no fees or charges for attendance at meetings. Board and room are provided at moderate rates in the dormitories and halls of Northfield Seminary, or in tents on the lovely campus. Christian people of all the evangelical denominations feel at home, — denominationalism drops out of sight except as informal groups may go together occasionally for fellowship.

Many of the outstanding Bible teachers and preachers of this and other lands have appeared on the Northfield platform during the past 50 years. And an unusually strong corps of leaders has been assembled by W. R. Moody this year. Among speakers from abroad there are J. Stuart Holden of London; John A. Hutton, editor of the "British Weekly," London; Adam W. Burnett of Glasgow, a tense, effective Biblical preacher of the best Scottish tradition, who is here for his third consecutive year; Donald M. Baillie also of Scotland on his first visit; the brothers Raymond B. and Richard S. Barker of Burma, with missionary messages. Wm. S. Mitchell of Malaga, Mass., another new voice at the Northfield conference, has given messages on "Evangelism Which Is Not Outgrown" and "The Minister of Today." L. M. Zimmerman of Washington, D. C., was heard on "The Shepherd of Souls." Charles R. Erdman of Princeton is always a favorite at Northfield. John Baillie of New York is giving lectures to ministers which he said may be summed up as a reply to a young man who says he is not interested in life after death.

Perhaps the high light of the conference thus far has been a series of six addresses on certain psalms (145, 90, 137, 143, 139, and 42-43) by James Moffatt of New York, translator of the Moffatt Bible. He began with a personal reminiscence of his seminary instructor, Professor A. B. Bruce of Glasgow, who approved his preaching on the psalms with the dictum: "The psalms are a cry, and a cry is always real."

Hence the psalms are always profitable for our spiritual life. The best commentary upon them is human life as we see it lived day by day. The psalter has become a sanctuary for the human soul. Here we meet God, and our cry is answered. The controlling idea of the psalms is the sense of God.

Music is always featured at the General Conference. This year the director is Prof. Irving J. Lawrence, for over 20 years head of the music department of Mount Hermon School, and for several years director of the public sacred concerts given in the Auditorium in June and October by the massed choir of 1200 students of the two Northfield schools. Associated with him are Mr. and Mrs. Buzzell of Suncook, N. H., in duets and solos, and Glavin Davies of Burlington, Vt., basso.

Upon the close of the General Conference the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor Conference will attract over 400 delegates for eight days, August 14-21. This concludes the present season, which began in June with an inspiring Girls' Conference. This was followed by a Women's Missionary Conference with both home and foreign outlook. Next came the Conference of Religious Education, its 30th annual session. It is thus seen that Northfield presents each summer a rounded program of conferences intended to stimulate and educate persons of all ages in individual Bible study and in methods of church activity.

Some one said that D. L. Moody was the first man to use school buildings throughout the whole year. Mr. A. G. Moody says he remembers as a mere boy hearing his uncle D. L. Moody discuss with his father the establishment of a place which should be a school for girls in the winter and a place where people should come for Bible study in the summer. That is the idea which was realized with the opening of Northfield Seminary in 1879, and has been maintained to date. When the last of the conferences is ended the buildings of Northfield Seminary will be put in order to receive some 500 girls for the 54th school year. At the same time Mount Hermon School nearby will welcome the same number of young men for its 52nd year. The conferences and the schools are an abiding outcome of D. L. Moody's life and labors, and are what have made Northfield a Christian center from which streams of blessing still flow throughout the whole world.

Northfield N. R. A. Gets Under Way

The display of the "Blue Eagle" Emblem in Northfield is getting under way and business will voluntarily enroll to a high percentage here. Postmasters Skilton, Siste and Buffum have each in their territory sent out the blanket code and the certificates of compliance are coming in. Chairman William F. Hoehn of the local Committee has added three additional names as members, Mrs. W. P. Stanley of the Fortnightly Women's Club and Mr. George McEwan of the American Legion both designated by their organizations and Mr. H. E. Buffum, Postmaster at South Vernon. This Committee held its first meeting at Town Hall on Tuesday evening and arranged its program of full co-operation. Various sub-committees were appointed and from now on its work will proceed in accordance with the organization chart and instructions from Washington. All interpretations of the code will be placed at the disposal of business and made available. Special codes affecting Northfield will be announced as approved. Thus far the Northfield Bank and the local grocery stores may operate under their special codes. Following the meeting of the committee a very largely attended meeting of all business interests and employers of labor was held and the code was presented with the interpretations received thus far. It was a most interesting session and many questions were asked some of which are to be forwarded for decisions. Mr. Stanley Reed of Wilson's Department Store was the speaker, giving the message and spoke enthusiastically of the purpose and intent of the plan of the N. R. A. In particular he dwelt upon its reception by the retail merchants and described the progress of events in Greenfield which led up to a definite announcement of store hours.

Chairman Hoehn stated that "while it is the desire of those in charge of the President's Emergency Re-employment campaign to see widespread use made of the official emblem of the N. R. A. which bears the words, 'We Do Our Part,' but it is a serious offense on the part of anyone who might make improper use of the insignia. The N. R. A. official emblem is the property of the United States Government and may not be used or reproduced without authority of the N. R. A. and only by those who sign the President's Re-employment Agreement and comply with it. Later an opportunity will be given to all our citizens to enroll and receive the 'consumer' distinction and emblem.

This is a war in which we are all engaged to end depression and see that we succeed. Everyone must do his part. Northfield must not falter.

Sustained A Fall

While visiting Sage Chapel last Sunday afternoon Mrs. Harry Oates of Brooklyn, N. Y., fell to the floor after leaving the gallery stairs and sustained severe injuries to her hip. She was cared for immediately by Dr. A. B. Nelson of Boston who happened to be in the chapel at the same time and removed to the home of Mrs. W. J. McRoberts in Mountain Park where she is a guest. Her daughter and Mrs. Suttie were in the group at the time. Dr. Wright was called in on Monday and Mrs. Oates was taken to Franklin County Hospital for X-ray and further treatment.

Had Lawn Party

On the grounds of St. Patrick's church on Main street a lawn party was held Wednesday and Thursday evening with a goodly attendance and a wealth of good things to eat. Everybody had a good time and the ladies of the parish aided in its success. Rev. P. E. Carey greeted the many friends.

General Conference In Closing Sessions Many Persons Present

The General Conference now in session is in its final stage. There has been a splendid attendance of earnest and devoted Christian people and a particularly fine spirit has been manifested. Dr. Burnett is one of the outstanding leaders of the Conference. This is his third year at Northfield, and he has gained great popularity among the ministers and delegates at the sessions.

Winchester Wedding
Vera Alice Nelson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luman Nelson of Winchester and Arthur Barnard of Shelburne, Mass., were married at the home of the bride's parents last Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. George T. Carl of the Federated church under an arch of spruce, ferns, gladioli and hydrangea.

The bride was gowned in white tulle and lace wearing a veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Miss Mildred Tarbo of Malden, Mass., the bridesmaid was dressed in pink organdie with hat to match and carried Talisman roses. Miss Phyllis Gaudet of Worcester, Mass., in peach organdie, was flower girl and Miss Nancy Barnard of Winchester, also in peach organdie, was ring bearer.

George Emory of Worcester, friend of the groom, acted as best man. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Helen Butterworth of Athol, Mass.

After the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn. Miss Eva Handy of Swansey and Miss Elizabeth Barnard of Shelburne, Mass., were ushers. After a trip through the northern part of the state they will reside in Keene.

Mr. George B. Webster died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alice Kenney on Thursday (yesterday) at noon at the age of 84 years. He had been in ill health for some time. He was born in Fayetteville, Vermont, June 10, 1847, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Webster. The funeral will be Sunday at two o'clock at Kidder's Parson.

His daughter had struck the urn accidentally with her auto as he got out and the urn toppled. Mr. Cowles is now getting about nicely with the aid of crutches.

Motion Picture Seminary

We would like to see the Herald readers know that the Davis popular motion picture seminary was once a student at Northfield Seminary. The case alluded to in the Herald was later attended (Cushing) by later attendants.

To further the purpose of the seminary, the husband of the student, Nelson Jr., who is now a Northfield friend, is studying at Mass. State College, which he graduated a few years ago. Mr. Nelson was a frequent visitor at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker and Dr. and Mrs. Allan H. Wright.

The picture seminary has the leading female opposite George Arliss in "The Working Man" which was shown at the Town Hall, Northfield on August 14th.

Many acclamations were given to the role portrayed by Arliss in his splendid film.

An indication of the great appeal of "The Working Man" was shown when the picture broke box office records at the Radio City Music Hall, the largest theatre in the world.

White-Wright Wedding In Beautiful Setting Last Saturday Afternoon

Miss Vera Isabelle Wright, elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Allen H. Wright of Northfield, was married to Mr. Lawrence R. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell White of Salmon, Idaho on the spacious lawn of her parents home on Main street last Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. Although the morning hours were threatened with clouds and rain, the afternoon became one of those "rare days" with the deep blue in the heavens above and the sun glorious in its radiance. It was a perfect afternoon and upon the lawn south of the home, beneath the pergola with all its fascination of beautiful flowers and vine, the ceremony of marriage was performed by Dr. Flint M. Bissell, pastor of the Universalist church of Dorchester assisted by Rev. W. Stanley Carne of the Northfield Trinitarian Congregational church.

From the sun parlor of the house wafted the music of piano and violin furnished by Prof. George A. Gibson a member of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, and Mr. Henry Freeman of Easton, Pa.

The bride wore white satin with a veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss June Wright, younger sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore peach and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids, who wore summer colors of orchid, green, pink and blue, and carried old fashioned bouquets of summer flowers, were Miss Faith Moran of Syracuse, N. Y., Miss Barbara Adams of Wilmington, Vt., Miss Elizabeth Reed of Dalton and Miss Polly Parker of Northfield. The best man was Lloyd Almirall of Brooklyn, N. Y. The ushers were Edward Morgan, Alvin Porter and Seth Field of Northfield and Roger Woodruff of Orange, N. J. Little Betty Birdsal, dressed in green was the flower girl and carried rose leaves along with the refreshments. The bridal party held a reception on the lawn and congratulations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. White by all their friends.

Miss Wright is a graduate of Northfield High School, attended Massachusetts State College two years, and graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music in June, 1933. She is president of Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary musical sorority, Beta chapter, and majored in organ under Dr. Carl McKinley in Boston.

Mr. White is a graduate of Salmon (Idaho) High School, and received his bachelor of music degree from the New England Conservatory of Music. He is a member of the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national honorary musical fraternity; a member of the Masonic Lodge, and has been a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra for six years. He is also a teacher of music.

The young couple will reside in Boston. They left Northfield by motor shortly after five for Greenfield where they boarded the train for a visit to the exposition at Chicago and from there will go to Salmon, Idaho where a reception will be accorded them at the home of Mr. White, Dr. and Mrs. Wright entertained several out of town friends at their home and gave two dinner parties to their guests. The wedding gifts which were generous and bountiful were shown in a room of the home and bear testimony of the high esteem in which Miss Wright was held by her friends. The Herald offers its congratulations to the young couple in behalf of its readers. Photographs of the wedding were taken by a newspaper photographer.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. SAFETY FOR FINE DRAPERIES

CONTRARY to popular belief, it is possible to wash fine draperies, hangings and furniture slip covers without danger of injury to the fabric or of fading, by exercising reasonable care and by following the suggestions listed below:

1. Shake dust out thoroughly.
2. Make tepid or cool suds, using mild, pure, white soap or flakes. Never use home-made soap. Avoid boiling and hard rubbing.
3. Lace curtains may be safely soaked. For colored fabrics use a second soak if dirt is stubborn.
4. Wash by gently swirling around and squeezing suds through the article. If washed by machine, run only a few minutes, change suds, and run a few minutes longer.
5. Use lukewarm rinsings, squeezing as dry as possible without wringing.
6. Hang smoothly on line to prevent wrinkles and streaks. Colored fabrics should be hung in shade.
7. Iron while uniformly damp with medium hot iron. Blinds should be ironed in one direction only and it is best to steam natural silk to dry completely before ironing.

A booklet, "Fine Fabrics," which describes in detail the care and laundering of delicate materials, may be secured without cost by writing to the National Household Service, 60 East 11th Street, New York, N. Y.

The Coolidge Monument At His Burial Place

Up at Plymouth Vermont the burial place of Calvin Coolidge, late ex-President of the United States was marked last week by the erection of a new memorial. In Hillside Cemetery under the shadow of Mount Killington where his forebears, seven generations of Coolidges and by side of his father, and of his son his grave witnessed the erection of a memorial which conforms in simplicity and refinement as well as in harmony to the nature of the place. The tablet bears the President's seal in low relief at the top, below which is shown the simple inscription, "Calvin Coolidge, July 4, 1872—January 5, 1933." On each of the four corners of the panel bearing this inscription is a single star with point upward, signifying the insignia of the commander-in-chief of the army and navy. The material is of fine-grained granite and was specially selected because of its suitability for showing the fine detail of the President's seal and the inscription. It is approximately five feet high and of strong and beautiful proportions. Many will visit his grave as they tour through Vermont and many even from Northfield will wend their way in pilgrimage to honor and revere the man whom they loved as President of this great nation.

Treadway Approves

Speaking at Holyoke recently Congressman Allen T. Treadway declared in an address that he gave unqualified indorsement to the N. R. A. but warned that coming generations will pay for it in taxes. He recommended the adoption of the industrial recovery codes. "The only thing is to try it out," he said of the new deal, adding, "I am glad we have a man of the caliber of Franklin D. Roosevelt to carry it through." The speaker took particular exception to the raising of $220,000,000 in taxes, half of which is to pay the interest on the bonds to finance the program and half for amortization. "The $3,300,000,000 which the President has power to spend almost at will under N. R. A. will come out of the pockets of the people," he declared. "It doesn't grow on the bushes at Washington or anywhere else."

Fair Ticket Sale

The advance ticket sale for the Franklin County Fair is to be inaugurated at once. A meeting of workers will be held Monday at Deerfield Academy to start the campaign. A dinner will be served and music will be furnished by the Greenfield Band. Speakers will include Al Lombard of the state department of agriculture, former President John W. Hagar, President Fred B. Dole of Shelburne and other men prominent in the agricultural society. This will be the third season that the society has conducted a pre-fair season ticket drive. The first year the campaign yielded $2,600; last year, with the depression on, receipts fell to slightly less than $2,000. This year, with improved conditions, fair officials anticipate the campaign will exceed this figure.

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

A. Gordon Moody, Resident Manager

The "Gold Diggers"

A new type of movie called the "Gold Diggers" will be shown at the Auditorium Theatre in Brattleboro next week for four days beginning Monday. Manager Latch informed a Herald representative that this type of picture had its forerunner in "42nd Street" but "Gold Diggers" is said to entirely eclipse it in the sheer force of its drama, in comedy situations, its catchy song hits and the novelty and beauty of its gigantic and spectacular dance ensembles.

The most difficult problem that confronted the Director of the production was the proper balance of music and drama so that each would be a distinct show in itself and yet blend together in such a way as to form an intrinsic part of an integral whole. He solved the difficulty by putting on the screen the entire theatrical production with its songs and dances and gigantic choruses, which the play could only hint at.

The production carries an all star cast which includes Warren

William, Joan Blondell, Alne McMahon, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Guy Kibbee, Red Skelton and Ginger Rogers. Two Hundred chorus girls are a part of the elaborate mobile sets. The brilliant new dances and song conceptions were created and staged by the famous musical comedy producer, Busby Berkeley. The music and lyrics are by the famous team of Harry Warren and Al Dubin, who wrote the song hits in "42nd Street."

IT'S the crisp, cool frock that wins high honors at all the Spring and Summer parties... the frock that boasts of covered shoulders... that makes a swishing, rustling sound when you dance... and that's invariably fashioned of a flowered, plaid or dotted cotton. Or a plain one, for that matter, provided it's charmingly tinted in a delicate pastel tone. You'll find all the cotton-conscious maidens this season choosing frocks like the two sketched (McCall 7818 and 7819), and making them of ruffles, or girdles, dummies, or any other cotton that is sheer, cool and delightfully colored. (By courtesy of The McCall Company.)

Three Big Fashions in A Junior's Life!

THE two-piece frock (McCall 7831), the jumper outfit (McCall 7807), and a sunback frock with a bolero (McCall 7810) are three costumes every junior miss will want to own. For the two piece frock goes smartly to any classroom, or any afternoon tea for that matter. The five piece jumper costume of plain linen and striped plume is right for any summer day's activities. It consists of scarf, blouse, jumper, skirt and sash which may be worn on top of the jumper or with the blouse and skirt. The sunback bolero ensemble comes in handy for tennis, for club wear, for a hundred and one sports occasions.

And the materials used can all be cotton. Or linen may be chosen for the two piece frock, in a pastel shade. Vivid yellow and white cotton mesh for the bolero outfit is sure to please one not only fashionably but economically. (By courtesy of The McCall Company.)

Want A Ford?

Those who "listen in" over the radio these days to Lum and Abner have been informed that there is a new Ford V-8 Tudor Sedan given away free each week and Mr. Ross L. Spencer the Northfield agent for Ford cars informed a Herald representative yesterday that many of the contest entry blanks have been given out by his office. The plan centers around the reply in fifty words of why the contestant would buy a Ford V-8. Here is how it is done. Go to your local Ford dealers. They will furnish you FREE with a contest blank on which you tell us, in 50 words, OR LESS, "Why I would Buy a New Ford V-8 Car." Every Friday the best statement is rewarded with a new Ford V-8 Sedan and if you do not win this week, or next week, you may be the winner in the following weeks.

Your local Ford dealer is anxious to help you win one of these wonderful new Ford V-8 Sedans, so you can get it out of your head right now that you are TROUBLING him when you go after this grand prize.

Mr. Spencer will show you WHY these new Ford V-8 cars have taken their place in the front rank as the most and best automobile for the least money—in style, comfort, safety, speed and durability—plus economy in purchase price, in operation cost and in upkeep.

Accept his invitation to drive one of these new Ford V-8 cars—and you'll have plenty of material to write a winning statement. No matter what kind of car you have driven before, there is a new thrill, a new experience awaiting you.

Hear the winners announced Friday night of each week, during the Old Time Sociable broadcast by Lum and Abner. It comes to you over the N. B. C. network.

Baseball Friday

Tonight (Friday) the strong Shelburne Falls Indians will be the attraction. This team has been winning a big majority of their games and the local boys will have to be on their toes to chalk up a win over this team.

Next Monday the Brattleboro Berkshires will cross bats with the locals. A good game is promised by the management. On Wednesday afternoon the Northfield boys travel to Warwick for their annual Old Home Day ball game. The game will be called at 3.15 p.m. It is hoped that the usual large following from Warwick will be in attendance.

Next Friday it is expected that the Charlemont Mohawks will be here to play the game originally scheduled for last Friday.

EDITORIAL

At the recent Conference of Governors held at San Francisco, Gov. Wilbur Cross of Connecticut presented a talk on the subject of tax exemptions. He felt he could not eliminate the principle of exempting property of religious, educational and charitable institutions.

"There is doubtless however," he said, "too much exemption in each of the three classes of property."

He suggested that where schools and colleges hold property not used for educational purposes it be taxed and so the thought spreads of limiting tax exemption.

The State Legislature at its last session at the urging of some farmers liberalized the anti-steel trap law to such an extent as to nullify the effect of the people's vote and declaration that the old dangerous and inhuman steel trap must go. Now referendum papers are filed to bring this matter to the vote of the people at the state election in 1934. The whole proposition seems to be another case of some one throwing a monkey wrench into politics to nullify the people's determination.

Women are taking their place in the political life of the nation for among the recent additions to the growing list of women appointed to official position by the Roosevelt Administration are Mrs. Blair Banister of Virginia, who has been named as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Miss Stella Akin of Georgia, who becomes an Assistant Attorney General. This recognition of the ability of women is to be commended.

The new coordinator of railroad transportation, Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, expresses the opinion that the salaries of the more highly paid railroad officials should be reduced.

The average citizen can see no propriety in making government loans to tide a railroad through a period of hard times and low earnings, when its president is receiving a salary of $100,000 or more per year, with others in executive positions getting proportional stipends.

The Liberty Loan posters of recent memory, have their successor now. It is a blue eagle against a white background, with the letters NRA at top and the motto "We Do Our Part" below. One of the eagle's claws clutches a cogwheel—the other holds to what might be a modernist's idea of a handful of wheat, or bolts of lightning. It is the emblem of the National Recovery Administration, and represents an honest attempt to end depression through force of public opinion. Business and industry must sign on the dotted line and come across. It means a peaceful revolution in the country's business. It is part of the "new deal" to the nation's people.

You see them on streets and highways every day—motorists who take chances.

You see them turning corners at high speeds. Or stealing another car's right of way. Or passing on hills and curves. Or driving on the wrong side of the road. Or cutting in and out of thick traffic. Or coming roaring into intersections and road junctions without looking to either side. Or operating at speeds which are obviously higher than are safe under driving conditions of the moment. And, every once in a while, you see such a motorist cause an accident. Perhaps there is little damage done. Or perhaps a life is lost and valuable property is needlessly destroyed.

It can all be prevented. And it will be when there is a concerted public drive against those who make places of carnage out of public highways.

Moody To McDowell

When Dwight L. Moody, in the rush of his evangelistic career, tarried long enough to establish two schools near his birthplace, he built the monument which remains to memorialize both the man and his greatest trait, a vigorous, practical interest in his fellow-man. The first of these, dating from 1879, was for girls, the second, founded in 1881, for boys; and he let the unbridled Connecticut flow between them.

Any memory of the boys at Mount Hermon in its first decade would be bound to include, indeed to signalize, a lad by the name of John McDowell. Perhaps his having but one arm helped to mark him for recollection, made the more certain if it was known that the other had been lost in a mining accident. An infant immigrant from Scotland, he had been a slate-picker in the dust of Pennsylvania anthracite at eight, a door boy and a driver at eleven and disqualified for a mining career by the loss of the left arm at fourteen. Now, in his sixties, he comes the moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and it is said of him that his life has ever "borne the unmistakable imprint of the evangelist's influence."

Of the felicitations upon his elevation to the peak of denominational distinction, the one that touched Mr. McDowell most deeply was the postcard on which a class-mate had written "D. L. M. will be pleased." Spiritual kinship being thus certified between two men whose careers are a half-century apart, interest is piqued as to the likeness or contrast in their service.

Moody was devoted, with dynamic ardor, to the saving of men. "Worker in Souls" was Gamaliel Bradford's fitting designation of him in the title of his critical biographical volume. It was the saving of individual souls. Alone with a man, probably kneeling with him, or preaching a homely gospel to ten thousand, his objective was the same, personal and singular. If the process gained effect by mass emotion, stirred by appeal to senses common to all humanity, aroused by songs within easy range of voice and mentality, it was not the through-out the man, woman or child to be reached and moved and redeemed.

McDowell, preaching at Steelton, later at Detroit, Newark and Baltimore, acting as the secretary of a committee on the church's responsibility for industrial and social relations, or now presiding over the denomination's great assembly, holds that the church must be the source of leadership for mankind groping towards an end of depressions and muddle and universal heartache. He argues that "the church that neglects to make itself a power for social justice, social service and social responsibility is doomed to decay."

The contrast is clear. It is not in a changed impulse. It is in the application of the Christian faith, acting through the church, to social ends. Personal salvation takes on the obligation of brotherhood. A Moody of today might be saying as we hear McDowell saying, "It may not be the business of the church to give the world an economic program, but it is the business of the church to see that no economic program is permitted to exist under which injustice and oppression and reckless gain-seeking find shelter."

The forceful moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly utters a conviction that has no denominational bounds. He is not alone in his belief when he says, "The world has had all it can endure, I believe, of selfish, materialistic, nationalistic philosophy. It asks for a true and sound philosophy for the future. Religion—all religion that promotes the realization that 'I am not only my brother's keeper but also my brother's brother'—offers such a philosophy to the world today."

Editors Note.—The above article written by Herbert C. Parson and published in the Christian Register of June 22 will be interesting reading to his friends in Northfield.

Yes We Lose

Green River Wins

The local boys went down to defeat last Wednesday night by the score of 10-6. The strong Green River Garage nine of Greenfield was the opponent. The visitors started things off with a bang in the very first inning and scored four runs on a three base hit, fielders choice, a single and a home run. The local boys came back in their half when Freddie Riel got on base by virtue of a second base error, Johnny Kersavage singled and Williams singled. Johnny was out at the plate in a close play when he tried to score on this hit. The visitors scored three more in the second on an infield error, two singles and two free passes. In the fourth they pushed across another tally on two singles and an infield error.

In the visitors half of the seventh a two base hit, a single, two errors and a base on balls accounted for two more runs.

Northfield came to bat in their half of the seventh. After Polhemus grounded out second to first and Scoble fled out to right field the fire works started.

Freddie Riel connected a beautiful four base sock that cleared the centerfield green by a good margin.

Shearer the next man up singled through shortstop. Johnny Kersavage dropped a nice Texas Leaguer between first and second. Dean Williams then came up and with the count two balls and no strikes he poked one of Ripka's fast ones on a line drive for right center which resulted in a home run.

This ended the rally and neither side was able to do any more damage in the last inning. The summary:

GOOD-NIGHT

"Good-night, sleep well," we say to those we love,
And watch dear faces glimmer on the stair,
And hear faint footfalls in the rooms above
Sound on the quiet air,
Yet feel no fear though lonely they must go
Th road of slumber's strange oblivion;

Dark always wears to dawn,
Sleep is so gentle, and so well we know,
Wherever they have gone,
They will be safe until the morning light,
Good-night, good-night!
Good-night, sleep well, Beloveds,
When the last
Slow dusk has fallen, and your steps no more
Make music on the empty upper floor,

And day fully past,
We who so lightly let you go alone,
Evening, by evening, from our trustful sight
Into the mystery of sleep's unknown—
We need not fear, tonight,
Death is so gentle—dark will break to dawn.
Love will be safe until the morning light,
Sleep well, good-night!

CONFLICTING PRAYERS

I've sometimes thought how wonderful it would seem,
To sit up there among the stars of God,
Or maybe on the shining stairs thereto
And listen to the World's conflicting prayers.

So many human hopes; such doubts and fears
Entreating life or death as this or that,
Rising continually from below
For Diety to dis-entangle them!

The fervent prayers of Nations and of men
Crossing and re-crossing like spider's threads—
Fought with the mysteries of Destiny
That day by day ascending go to God!

Some futile as the chaff before the wind;
Some calling Heaven's vengeance on the earth;
Some made to raise a fallen brother up
Or asking alms or healing for a wound!

It is appealing, — yet appalling too,
To think how many, many prayers
Of how our Father hears them!

And justly judges each conflicting claim!

Hinsdale

The special town meeting called for Aug. 4 has been postponed until Monday, Aug. 14, at 8 o'clock in the evening. The town meeting is to see if the town will vote to employ engineers to investigate the sources of a water supply and to determine the cost of a water system and a sewerage system.

At the regular meeting of the Hinsdale fire department the following delegates were chosen to attend the convention at Nashua Sept. 5: Engineer Frank J. Young, alternate, Hildreth; Delphy; chemical, Winfield Brooks, alternate, Leonard Young; hook and ladder, Clarence Howe, alternate Leo Marshall; cart No. 1, Joseph O. Bergeron, alternate, Kenneth Brooks; cart No. 3, Daniel La Chance, alternate, Dona Bergeron; mill pumpmen, John P. McCaughern, alternate, Robert A. Weeks.

The Congregational church will not hold services during the month of August.

Thirty years as tax collector of Hinsdale and still going strong is the record of F. O. Packard, who was 77 years old last April. As evidence of not having lost any zest for his job, Mr. Packard has collected more than 85 per cent of the taxes, or $47,600, out of the $56,600 tax levied this year, since the bills were issued July 1.
